

Old Victoria Mining Community

Rockland, MI

Step back in time... and touch the past at Old Victoria. Built in 1899, abandoned in 1921, and restored in the 1970s, the old Victoria cabins give visitors a glimpse into the lives of hard-working miners and their families in the remote copper mining town of Victoria, Michigan.

Visitor Center

Learn more about the history of Victoria and sign up for a guided tour. Find out about recreational opportunities in the Victoria Dam Recreation Area. No admission required to tour the Visitor Center, but donations are appreciated. All guided tours depart from the Visitor Center.

Cabin Tours

Walk through the actual homes where hard-working miners and their families lived. Hear about their hardships and challenges as your tour guide takes you back to Victoria of the copper mining days. Tour fee: $5 adults age 13 and over, $2 youth age 6-12, age 5 and under free. Cabin tours take at least 45 minutes, and include opportunities for hands-on history.

Ruins Walks

An extended tour of Old Victoria beyond the restored cabins to explore ruins of the Victoria mine site. Tour fee: $10 adults age 13 and over, $5 youth age 6-12 (all youth must be accompanied by an adult). Ruins walks take approximately an hour-and-a-half and require hiking up and downhill on rocky trails. Ruins Walks Schedule: Tuesdays and Wednesdays in July and August between 11:00 am and 5:00 pm; and every Saturday in July, August and September at 9:30 am. As always, call for updated pricing and times!
